Chapter One

"Tomorrow's World"

A daring drama of the world as it may be 500 years from now is presented in Filmcraft's spectacular 12-chapter serial picture, "Buck Rogers," which starts at the..... Theatre with Buster Crabbe in the title role and Constance Moore, Jackie Moran and Jack Mulhall heading an all-star cast.

Bringing the famous newspaper cartoon character to thrilling life on the screen, the story starts off when a giant dirigible, piloted by Buck (Buster Crabbe) and Buddy (Jackie Moran) crashes on an icy Arctic mountain. A strange "Nirvano" gas in their gondola preserves the flyers in a state of suspended animation for 500 years. Rescued and revived by a group of scientists they discover that the world has been conquered by Killer Kane and a horde of super-gangsters.

Taken to the Hidden City, they meet Wilma (Constance Moore) and Dr. Huer (Montague Shaw) and agree to help them wipe out Kane. Huer has invented spaceships, de-gravity belts, invisible ray machines, atom chambers, ray guns and other strange and powerful weapons to resist Kane. Buck, Wilma and Buddy go to Saturn in their space-ship to enlist aid of the Saturnians. Bombed by one of Kane's pilots, their craft explodes just as they reach Saturn.

Chapter Two

"Tragedy On Saturn"

Escape from a wrecked rocket ship, a battle with a strange race of men on the planet Saturn, and treachery of the enemy, are highlights found in the second episode of Filmcraft's daring adventure serial, "Buck Rogers" coming to the

Theatre with Buster Crabbe, Constance Moore and Jackie Moran in leading roles.

Using their de-gravity belts, Buck, Buddy and Wilma make a safe landing on Saturn after their ship has been bombed by Killer Kane's men who have followed them. In a pitched battle Buck and his friends are captured by Captain Lasca. Both groups are captured in turn by the Saturnians who take them to the great council of the wise for judgment and sentence. Here, Lasca convinces the rulers that Killer Kane is a just and kindly monarch. Only fast action permits Buck and his party to escape prison and return to earth in one of Lasca's spaceships.

Entering the gates of Hidden City in their strange craft, Buck's ship is crushed as the gates close upon it and all the occupants are apparently killed.

Chapter Three

"The Enemy's Stronghold"

Warriors from a strange planet, a daring adventure in the stronghold of the world dictator, and a war pact with a foreign Prince, are the elements found in the third episode of Filmcraft's gripping serial, "Buck Rogers," to be seen at the Theatre with Buster Crabbe, Constance Moore, Jackie Moran and an impressive cast.

As his rocket ship is about to be crushed between the great gates of the Hidden City, Buck blasts a hole through the floor and his party escapes to earth using de-gravity belts. Here they are arrested and taken to Dr. Huer, scientist general, where they are immediately freed. They report their experiences on the planet Saturn, and plan some way of fighting their enemies. Prince Tallen comes to sign a war pact with Killer Kane, despotic world ruler and Buck and Buddy make a daring trip to Kane's palace to present the agreement. Tallen learns that Kane is a crook and wearing a de-gravity belt, starts to leave with Buck, and Buddy. The guards turn a searchlight on them, and a paralyzing gun which imprisons them helpless in midair as machine gunners load their weapons.

High adventure in the palace of Killer Kane, despotic world dictator, an escape in a rocket ship and bombing by the enemy, are among the spectacular scenes that enhance the drama in the fourth chapter of "Buck Rogers," Filmcraft's thrilling adventure serial, which will be seen..... at the Theatre with Buster Crabbe, Constance Moore and Jack e Morgan.

Buddy, who escaped the deadly paralyzing rays that imprison Buck Rogers and Prince Tallen in midair, uses his disintegrating gun to destroy the paralyzing machine thus saving his friends. In Kane's personal rocket plane they start back to the Hidden City to report the aid of Saturnians in the war with Killer Kane. Wilma, ignorant of the fact that her friends are riding in Kane's ship, starts to bomb the craft and forces it down in the mountains. As Buck, Buddy and Prince Tallen run for safety among the rocks, a Killer Kane squadron arrives and explodes the ship, apparently killing Buck and his party.

Chapter Five

"The Phantom Plane"

Adventures on the planet Saturn are highlights found in the fifth thrilling episode of Filmcraft's 12-chapter serial drama, "Buck Rogers," which will be shown..... at the Theatre with Buster Crabbe, Constance Moore and Jackie Moran.

Discovering that Buck, Buddy and Prince Tallen are being bombed by Killer Kane's air-pilots, Wilma turns her rocket ship back and drives the enemy away. She then takes the party to Hidden City, where Tallen signs a war pact to help in the war against Kane. Bad interplanetary radio reception makes it necessary for Buck, Tallen and Wilma to ride a space-ship to Saturn to confirm the pact.

Upon landing on Saturn they find an abandoned Kane ship and enter it in the hope of wrecking the controls. From Ambush, Kane's pilots spring forward and, closing the doors, release poison gas inside which apparently kills the three earth folk as they fall gasping to the floor.

An electric ray-helmet which changes men into "human robots," a friend who turns traitor, and a wild ride in an underground bullet car, are only a few of the spectacular elements found in the s xth thrilling episode of Filmcraft's 12-chapter serial drama, "Buck Rogers" playing..... at the Theatre with Buster Crabbe, Constance Moore, and Jackie Moran in featured roles.

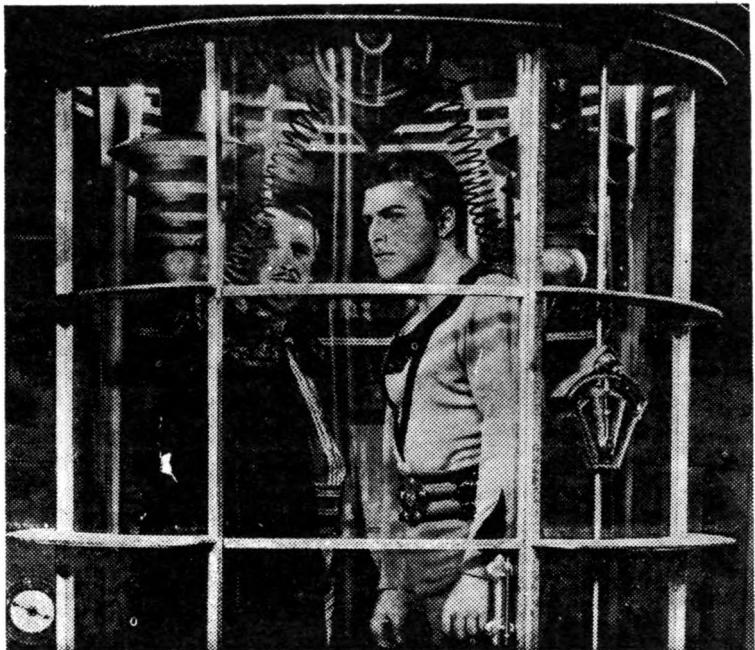

Buck, Wilma and Prince Tallen are rescued from the gas-filled space-ship by Killer Kane's men and taken to the great Saturnian forum. To induce Tallen to do their bidding, they fit him with an electric ray-helmet which makes his mind a blank and transforms him into a human robot who does what he is told. Buck and Wilma are amazed to hear Tallen denounce them and order them imprisoned, and agree to fight with Kane. Grasping Lasca's ray pistol, and using Tallen as a shield, Buck and Wilma make their escape in an underground bullet car.

To prevent their getting away, Lasca throws a switch which closes a steel door in their path, and toward which their speeding car must crash and kill them all.

Chapter Seven “Primitive Urge”

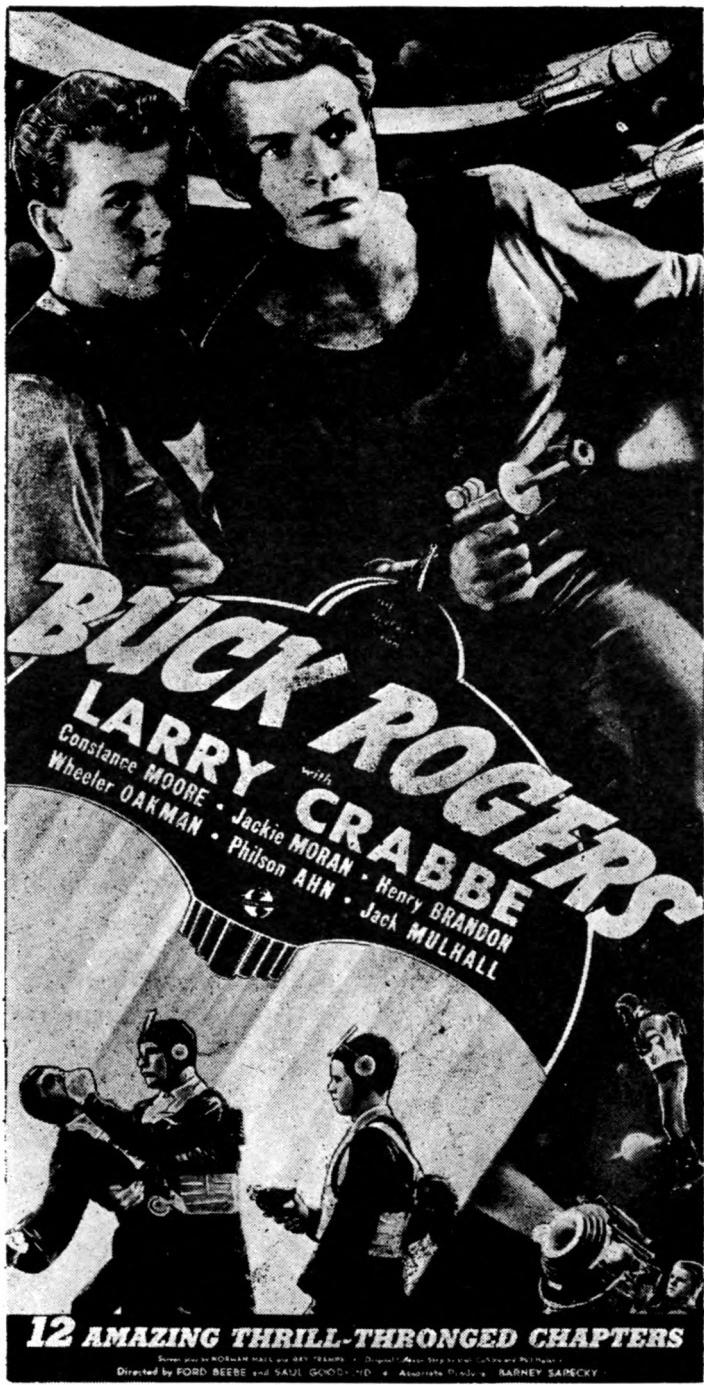

Rebellion by a strange race of “Zugg” men on the planet Saturn, who accept a “human robot” as their leader, is the daring premise of the seventh episode of Filmcraft's spectacular adventure serial, “Buck Rogers,” to be shown.....

.....at theTheatre, with Buster Crabbe as the star, and featuring Constance Moore and Jackie Moran.

Recovering consciousness after their speeding bullet car crashes into a steel bulkhead, Buck, Wilma and Tallen return to the high tribunal of Saturn to plead their cause. Tallen has lost the filament-ray helmet that blotted out his mind, and again recognizes Buck and Wilma as his friends.

Meantime, Lasca discovers that the terrible primitive race, known as “Zugg” men, have accepted another human robot henchman of Lasca's as their leader and are staging a rebellion. Headed by Lasca and his gangsters they force their way into the forum. Buck smashes the radio set just as Lasca tries to broadcast for Kane to send reinforcements. The angry Zuggs charge Buck and he goes down under a wave of fighting, animal-like creatures.

Chapter Eight "Revolt of the Zuggs"

Buster Crabbe fights a daring battle with the terrible Zugg men of Saturn, and brings an end to a great rebellion in the eighth dramatic episode of "Buck Rogers," Filmcraft's spectacular adventure serial, which plays at the Theatre with Constance Moore and Jackie Moran in featured roles.

Escaping through a secret door when the Zuggs attack him in the forum, Buck calls the forces of Saturn to battle. Surprising Lasca and his human robot as they are rousing the Zuggs to further warfare, Buck removes the robot's helmet and discovers he is a friend. The robot then orders the Zuggs to forget their rebellion and go home in peace.

Grateful because Buck has ended the war, the Saturnians then agree to aid him in his battle with Killer Kane. Returning to earth with this good news, Buck is attacked by the enemy. His ship collides head-on with another plane and falls dizzily toward the ground.

Chapter Nine “Bodies Without Minds”

The drama of a brave boy who risked death to save a friend, a daring adventure inside the secret council chamber of Killer Kane, despotic world war-lord, and Buck's imprisonment in Kane's terrible dynamo room, bring spectacular drama to the ninth chapter of “Buck Rogers,” Filmcraft's daring serial picture to be seen on at the Theatre with Buster Crabbe, Constance Moore and Jackie Moran.

Righting his rocket ship as it falls dizzily toward earth, Buck makes a safe landing, but he and Wilma are captured and taken to Kane's palace.

The Hidden City people believe Buck has been killed; but Buddy Wade refuses to accept the thought. Risking his life to save his friend, he drops from a plane and lands inside Kane's airdrome at night. Finding the council chamber in the palace empty, he reads the television machine and locates Buck inside the dynamo room. Buck is wearing a filament-ray helmet that makes him a helpless human robot and slave. Just as Buddy starts from the room to free Buck, a guard discovers the boy and shoots him down as he leaps through a window, apparently to his death.

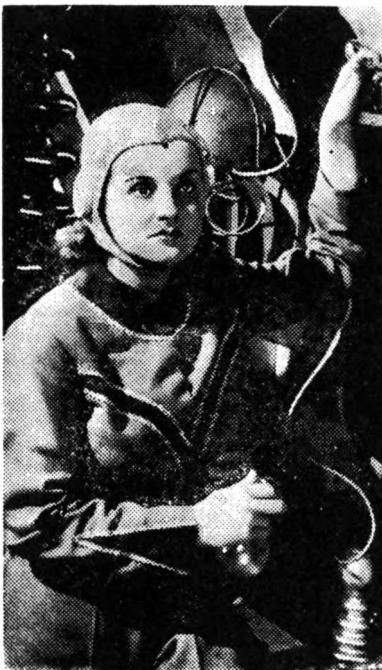

Chapter Ten “Broken Barriers”

Buck Rogers' escape from a deadly filament-ray helmet, and a surprise air raid highlight the tenth chapter of Filmcraft's thrilling adventure serial, “Buck Rogers” which will be shown at the Theatre with Buster Crabbe, Constance Moore and Jackie Moran in leading roles.

The shot which apparently killed Buddy only stunned him and he continues on to meet Wilma and help rescue Buck from the ray helmet and slavery in the dynamo room. Together they take one of Kane's ships and return to the Hidden City. One of Kane's spies has stowed away inside the ship, and on arrival gains control of the airdrome office. He calls Kane's raiding squadron to bomb the city, and at the fadeout, Buck is knocked out cold just as the first of the raiding bombers arrive.

Constance Moore in Filmcraft's
“Buck Rogers.”

Chapter Eleven "A Prince In Bondage"

Buster Crabbe lives through one of the most thrilling periods of his amazing screen career, in the eleventh chapter of Filmcraft's adventure serial, "Buck Rogers," which will play..... at the Theatre.

Reviving quickly from the blow that knocked him to the floor of the airdrome control room, Buck overpowers Carson and closes the great gates of Hidden City just in time to bar entrance of the first of the enemy bombers. Huer tries unsuccessfully to radio the Saturnians to join them in battle to wipe out the despotic ruler, Killer Kane.

Buck and Buddy take their rocket ship to Saturn and find that Lasca has taken Prince Tallen prisoner and is demanding the planet submit to rule by Kane. Buck urges them not to deal with the treacherous Lasca, as Killer Kane's ships start to bomb the city. Buck and Buddy try to escape in the bullet car but a bomb demolishes the roof, burying them in a mass of falling stone and debris.

Chapter Twelve "War of the Planets"

Dozens of rocket ships roaring in a great air battle high in the skies, give dramatic thrills to the twelfth and final episode of Filmcraft's daring adventure serial, "Buck Rogers," to be seen..... at the..... Theatre with Buster Crabbe, Constance Moore and Jackie Moran.

Buddy frees Buck from the mass of debris inside the bombed building on the planet Saturn. With Prince Tallen, they succeed in capturing the treacherous Captain Lasca and his men. The Saturnians promise to help in the war against Killer Kane, and Buck and Buddy start back to earth. Deciding to attack from the inside, Buck lands the ship at Kane's palace airdrome. The Saturnians arrive and in a magnificent air battle, Killer Kane's men are defeated.

As a reward, Buck is made marshal of all the nation's planes. Buddy, despite his age, is made brevet lieutenant. At last, Buck and the pretty Wilma have time to consider romance.

I. The Untamed Beast

Tom and Bernie MacGraw (Stephen Carr, I. Stanford Jolley), co-managers of the Culver Circus and administrators of a $500,000 trust fund, have been holding the money for any surviving heir of Les Culver, original founder of the show, who, with his party, mysteriously disappeared in Africa almost twenty years ago. Culver's daughter, Ruth, a baby at the time, was among those who vanished. According to the trust terms, the MacGraws will acquire the money unless an heir appears within the next year. Tom tells Bernie he has heard from Andre Bocar (Leonard Penn), a trader in Icalia, Africa, of the rumored existence of a white queen in the interior. He plans an expedition there. Bernie tries to eliminate his brother by clubbing him into unconsciousness and dragging him close to the cage of a dangerous gorilla. Congo Bill (Don McGuire), wild animal trainer and jungle specialist, rushes to the rescue but is waylaid by two assailants.

JUNGLE ADVENTURER DON McGuIRE seems headed for unique extinction in Columbia's super-serial reprint, "Congo Bill."

2. Jungle Gold

Congo Bill's attackers are frightened off and he continues to the aid of the badly injured Tom. Before Tom dies, he asks Bill to find Ruth Culver, the missing heiress, if at all possible. Bernie and his accomplice, Morelli (Hugh Prosser), worried about Congo Bill's suspicions, plan to do away with him. Morelli, expert knife-thrower, hurls a knife at a man thought to be Bill standing on the bridge. The figure falls to his death!

3. A Hot Reception

The man killed turns out to be a circus watchman. Bernie sends Bill to Africa after wild animals and wires Bocar to have him disposed of when he arrives. Bill meets a man who has information on the Culver expedition. But the man is murdered, and two of Bocar's men trap Bill as he searches for evidence!

4. Congo Bill Springs a Trap

Congo Bill is saved by an unseen man. Bill heads his safari toward the forbidden valley of Namu to look for the mysterious white queen; he chooses a youth, Kahla (Neyle Morrow), as his gun bearer. Bocar men speed past the group, shooting indiscriminately. Bill and Kahla race after them, when suddenly their car is caught in an explosion!

5. White Shadows in the Jungle

The uninjured Bill rescues Kahla from the wreck. As the safari pushes closer to the forbidden land, Lureen (Cleo Moore), the white queen of Namu Valley, orders Tonata (Stanley Price) to capture the white man. The witch doctor, Nagoo (Frank Lackteen), tells Tonata to kill the whole group, lest they learn of his illicit gold shipments to Bocar. Bill and Kahla are attacked by Tonata; Kahla stumbles and, as Bill bends to help him, a huge rock falls.

6. The White Queen

Congo Bill pulls Kahla to safety as the boulder hurtles by. The mysterious stranger chases off the pursuing tribesmen. Soon afterwards, Lureen's lion attacks Bill and, when she tends his wounds in her tent, Bill discovers that she is Ruth Culver! Tonata and Nagoo plan to sacrifice Bill. Threatened from all sides, Bill and Lureen attempt to cross a quicksand swamp.

7. Black Panther

The stranger and Kahla save Bill and Lureen from the quicksand. She remains with her tribe, while Bill continues the search for the stolen Culver letter. Kahla, serving as lookout while Bill ransacks Bocar's house for the letter, is knocked out by Bocar's henchmen. Bill escapes capture. Kahla revives but springs a trap which throws him into a pit containing a wild, black panther!

8. Sinister Schemes

Congo Bill saves Kahla from the panther. Bernie and Morelli arrive from the States. Meanwhile, Bill is captured and placed under an elaborate torture mechanism. Attempting his rescue, Kahla is knocked out and Bill moves steadily closer to revolving knife blades and certain death.

10. Trail of Treachery

Bill escapes death when Kahla topples a stone idol in the path of the arrows. Nagoo agrees to commute the death sentence. The expedition leaves for Icala, carrying the concealed gold. Bocar plans to highjack the safari at night to obtain the gold, but Lureen sees him and is seized. Attempting to free Lureen, Bill is caught in a noose. Congo Bill is hanging helplessly, head down, when a Bocar man fires at the hanging figure, which suddenly goes limp.

11. A Desperate Chance

Having only pretended to be hit, Bill frees himself and releases Lureen. Cameron, the mysterious stranger, and Kahla are captured at Bocar's hideout. Congo Bill goes after his friends. Kahla, who has escaped, intercepts Bill and leads him to Cameron. Bernie and Morelli knock out Kahla, then overpower Bill and Cameron, rendering them unconscious. A fire sets off some nearby explosive!

12. The Lair of the Beast

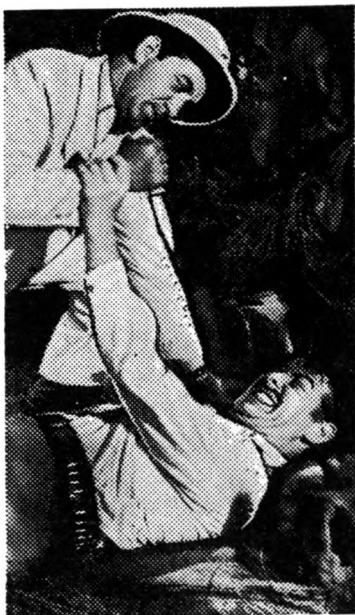

Congo Bill regains consciousness a few moments before the explosion and drags Cameron to safety. Kahla manages to join them. Lureen decides to return to Namu and see that the witch doctor is punished; she is captured by Nagoo. Congo Bill's party splits in two in the jungle, and Cameron is captured by Nagoo's tribesmen. Nagoo hypnotizes Cameron into attempting to stab Bill!

13. Menace of the Jungle

Cameron only pretends to kill Congo Bill because he is being watched by Nagoo, who has followed him. Bill and his friends rescue Lureen. Bocar kills Nagoo, and then, with his allies, heads back for Icala. Bernie and Bocar quarrel over the gold and there is a split between the two factions. Bernie and Morelli try to eliminate Lureen by letting a gorilla into her room.

14. Treasure Trap

Congo Bill arrives in time to save Lureen from being killed. Two of Bill's friends are captured by Bocar men and are taken to Bocar's hideout to be questioned. Congo Bill and Kahla follow and free the prisoners, whom Bocar has tied up in the hot sun to loosen their tongues. Bill starts out to locate the hiding place of the gold. Bill is caught in a deadly trap, while one of Bocar's men stands by to prevent rescue!

MERCURY SPACE SHIPS ZOOM TO EARTH in Columbia's new super-serial.
Jules Verne's "Mysterious Island."

1. Lost in Space

In 1865, during the Civil War, Captain Harding (Richard Crane), a prisoner of the Confederates, escapes in an enemy balloon along with Gideon Spilett (Hugh Prosster), a war correspondent; Jack Pencroft (Marshall Reed), a sailor; Bert Brown (Ralph Hodges), Pencroft's adopted son, and Neb (Bernard Hamilton), Harding's servant. The balloon drifts for five days, finally crashing on a desert island. Harding, who has leapt overboard to save the others, is snatched from the sea by a strange giant who vanishes with him. A space ship from the planet Mercury also lands on the island with a girl and two men. The castaways, hiding from hostile natives, are buried beneath a cave's falling roof!

2. Sinister Savages

Pencroft digs Bert from the fallen debris and revives the others. Rulu (Karen Randle) and her Mercurian aides set up a workshop. Harding, still unconscious, has been taken into the secret grotto of Captain Nemo (Leonard Penn). Ayrton (Terry Frost), a former castaway who has turned wild man, makes a murderous attack on Bert, who is rescued by the others. The castaways, pursued by the natives, find a crevice that appears to lead through a rock wall. Outside, a native witch doctor puts some powder into the crevice which is filled with flame!

3. Savage Justice!

Bert finds a way out just as the flames close in. Meanwhile, Rulu and her aides continue to seek the mysterious metal for which they traveled to Earth. The castaways see Harding lying in a clearing but before they reach him natives carry him away. While Bert and Neb return to the balloon for guns and ammunition, Pencroft and Gideon trail the natives who took Harding. Before they can fight their way to him, Harding is bound to a pole and lowered into the water under which he disappears!

4. Wild Man at Large!

The natives are driven off, with the arrival of Bert and Neb, and the latter saves Harding from the pool. The party of castaways takes refuge in Ayrton's hut. Bert's cry for help brings Harding and Pencroft to his aid and they overpower Ayrton, his assailant. Ayrton explains that he escaped from the pirates who use the island to cache their stores. Pencroft and Gideon go with Ayrton when he offers to lead them to food. Instead he cuts loose an overhead net and tons of debris fall on the helpless Pencroft and Gideon!

Gideon is knocked out by falling debris, but Pencroft leaps clear. Pencroft drives Ayrton off, then revives Gideon. Harding, Pencroft and Bert capture two natives who lead them to their chief. Ayrton and the witch doctor, Moapi, appear. The witch doctor says the gods are angry and that the castaways must be destroyed. Harding, Pencroft and Bert fight their way out. Ayrton leads them to Nemo's cave and then vanishes. Unseen by the others, Captain Nemo turns a small knob which electrifies the cave and the adventurers collapse on the floor!

MYSTERY LADY FROM MERCURY. Karen Randle leads out-of-this-world invaders in Columbia Pictures' super-serial, Jules Verne's "Mysterious Island"

6. The Pirates Attack!

The strange electrical outburst stops, leaving them unharmed. Ayrton is captured by pirates and brought to their leader, Captain Shard (Gene Roth). The castaways run into a pirate trap. While the adventurers fight off the pirates, Bert seeks help from the mystery man, but is trapped in Nemo's cave by Rulu. Meanwhile Moley (Rusty Wescott), Shard's aide, sets off a charge of powder which blasts the other castaways.

7. Menace of the Mercurians

Warned by Harding, the adventurers escape the explosion by dashing into a cave. Harding and Neb retreat through a door which opens mysteriously and they find themselves in a tunnel. Gideon and Pencroft are made prisoners. Meanwhile, Rulu hypnotizes Bert with a wand. Captain Nemo helps the castaways to escape from the pirates. That night the castaways again are captured. They are dumped into a boat at which pirate cannons blaze away.

9. Shrine of the Silver Bird

Harding and the others save themselves by falling prone. When the pirates are driven off, the chief, friendly again, leads the castaways to a cavern called the Shrine of the Silver Bird. There, Harding finds a curious plastic box. Bert escapes Rulu and takes one of the ray guns with him but is captured by Ayrton. Rulu and her men surprise the chief and the castaways and she destroys the plastic box by a shot from her ray gun. Rulu vanishes over a ledge. Harding and Pencroft, pursuing the fleeing girl, are blasted off the ledge when Rulu's accomplices set off a hidden charge of explosives with pistol shots.

10. Fighting Fury!

Harding and Pencroft land unharmed and capture Rulu. She is allowed to escape. Harding trails her. Her aides return, however, and capture him. Harding assures Rulu that as soon as they have found Bert, he and his party will leave the island and Rulu agrees to help him. Ayrton leads the pirates to Bert and is in turn made a prisoner. The shack in which they are kept bursts into flames during a fight with one of their captors and they are trapped!

11. Desperate Chances!

Bert and Ayrton escape by crashing through a wall of the shack. As the pirates close in, Harding and Rulu arrive in the nick of time. Rulu leaves abruptly as Gideon, Neb and Pencroft arrive. Harding learns Shard plans to attack Rulu inland thus giving his party an opportunity to capture the pirate vessel. When Bert presumably deserts to Rulu, Harding sends half his force after Bert, while the others board the ship. Ayrton, injured in the ensuing fight, goes wild again and blows up the ship!

12. Mystery of the Mine

Harding sees Ayrton throw a torch into the hold and yells a warning to Pencroft. They dive overboard and barely escape the explosion which kills Ayrton. They swim ashore. Meanwhile, Bert is captured by pirates but is rescued by Rulu who again puts Bert in a trance. Harding and Pencroft trail Bert and the natives Rulu has enslaved into a mine where she is seeking her precious radio-active metal. There they are the target for a Mercurian volley fired at point-blank range!

13. Jungle Deadfall

Bert, seeming to snap out of his trance, crashes into the Mercurians from behind and diverts their aim. Shard suggests that his pirates and the castaways join forces in order to escape the island. Harding agrees. To forestall Shard's plan to enlist native aid, Rulu puts the chief and his warriors under her magic spell. Harding and Shard are rendered unconscious under a native deadfall as a huge weight crashes down!

1. Mystery of the Lost Tribe

Having received a sample of a cure-all healing powder from his colleague, Dr. Reed (Bud L. Buster), missing three months in the wild country of the Arzecs, Dr. Moore (John Elliott) arrives at Jake Rayne's Trading Post, picks up supplies, and accompanied by Tom, his guide, and Rayne's men, Cragg, Brent and Charley, and some natives, he starts out for the Hidden Village of the Arzecs. Dr. Reed's daughter, Ann (Janet Shaw), arrives, is met by Cora (Veda Ann Borg) in cahoots with Rayne (Charles King), imprisoned but escapes in the jungle. Meanwhile, Dr. Moore's entire party is captured by Arzec warriors and about to be sacrificed to the god Rana because their chief is dying. Hopelessly lost, Ann is found by Bob Moore (Kane Richmond), the doctor's son, and his buddy, Joe Riley (Eddie Quillan). In an exchange of shots between Cora's men looking for Ann and her rescuers, a tire of Bob's car is blown out. Ann and Joe are thrown clear, but the car with Bob pinned in careens down a hill.

2. Primitive Sacrifice

Joe and Ann get to the wrecked car to find that Bob is miraculously all right. Taking Ann back to the Post, Bob and Joe warn Rayne and Cora that nothing should happen to her. Bob shows Ann how to work the radio rigged up by his father. Dr. Moore cures the chief; Tom, Cragg and Brent go free. About to be sacrificed, the witch doctor has his henchmen overpower and drug Dr. Moore, who is dressed in the witch doctor's regalia and placed on the sacrificial altar. Zara (Carol Hughes), priestess of Rana, looks on the proceedings. Bob and Joe draw near the Hidden Village. In scaling a rocky wall, Bob slips and knocks Joe loose from his precarious perch.

3. Prisoners of Fate

Dr. Moore awakens from his drugged sleep and cries for help. Matu, the chief's son, pulls off the witch doctor's mask, revealing Dr. Moore. The real witch doctor, fleeing, is pursued by natives, but Zara saves him. Bob and Joe, who have recovered from their fall, return to the car to hear Ann on the radio. They also hear that Rayne is trying to break into her room. They rush to the Post, rescue Ann, and go back to the outskirts of the Hidden Village. A native warrior sees them, and they are soon attacked by blazing firebrands and flying spears. Rayne's men arrive also, start firing, and suddenly the gasoline drums on one of the trucks explode!

4. Valley of Destruction

Just before the explosion, Ann runs from the truck, but is captured by two natives who take her to the Hidden Village. Bob and Joe get clear of the blast. Meanwhile, the witch doctor tampers with Dr. Moore's medicine. When Dr. Moore fails to cure wounded warriors, both he and Ann are to be sacrificed. Bob and Joe set out with Tom, who has joined them. They come to the Valley of Sounds. Tom warns them that the slightest vibration causes high rocks to fall. Watching their arrival, the witch doctor beat a large gong. A terrific landslide engulfs Bob, Joe and Tom.

5. Perilous Mission

Bob, Joe and Tom reach a safe spot in the cliff which protects them from the landslide. They start back for the Post. Ann and Dr. Moore are to be sacrificed when the latter asks to send Ann back for special medicine. Matu defies the priestess Zara, says he will take her place if she doesn't return, gives her a special necklace. There is a fight between Rayne's henchmen and Bob, Joe and Tom when Brent, Rayne's man, takes the necklace from Ann. She hides in the Post well. During the fight, Bob is thrown into the well. Both plunge into its depths.

6. Into the Valley of Fire

Bob manages to catch the well ladder. Cora forces Brent to turn over the necklace and stars out for the Hidden Village. More people sicken in the Village, and Dr. Moore's and Matu's plight seem hopeless. Joe, who had been taken prisoner with Tom by Rayne's men, gets a gun. He frees himself, rescues Bob and Ann and takes Rayne's men prisoners. Cora, meanwhile, reaches the Hidden Village. Shown another way into the Village by friendly natives through the Valley of the Fire God, Bob gets to the top of a volcanic crater just as Dr. Moore and Matu, at the order of Zara, jump to their doom.

BLONDE VEDA ANN BORG seems unperturbed by Carol Hughes' knife in this scene from Columbia's reprint serial, "Jungle Raiders."

7. Devil's Brew

Dr. Moore and Matu land on a ledge. Bob rescues them, and then Matu leads them back to the Hidden Village. He is convinced that his father, the chief, will be the next victim of the witch doctor who had caused all the sickness among the natives. Back at the Post, Rayne who has had Dr. Reed a prisoner all this time because the doctor knows of the treasure hidden at the Arzec village, tries to make him talk. Charley spots Joe and Ann approaching. He warns Rayne who rigs up high explosives in their path. A terrific explosion blots out their jeep.

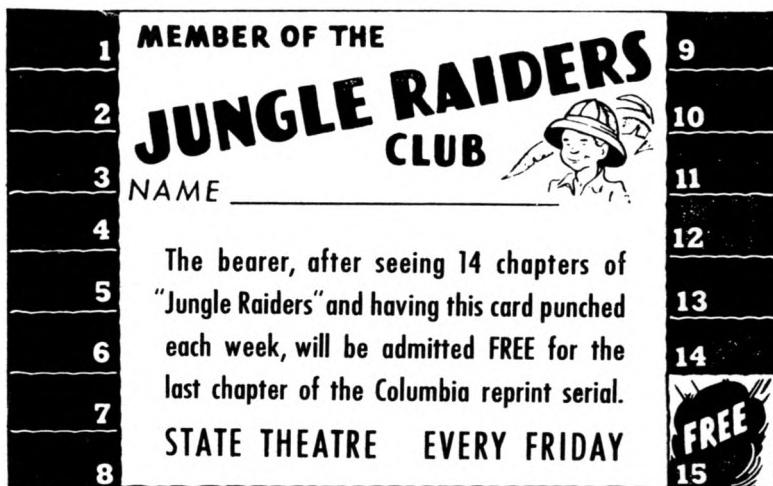

8. The Dagger Pit

Tom, who had been a prisoner of Rayne's, frees himself and aids Joe and Ann. Meanwhile, Cora pretends to be on Dr. Moore's side. But, prompted by Zara, she drugs the coffee prepared for the doctor and Bob. They, in turn, feign unconsciousness and are taken to Zara. The witch doctor is about to do away with them, but Zara has them taken to the Dagger Pit. Dr. Moore and Bob are placed on the ledge of a rock which slowly lowers as an assistant turns a windlass, dropping them to their doom.

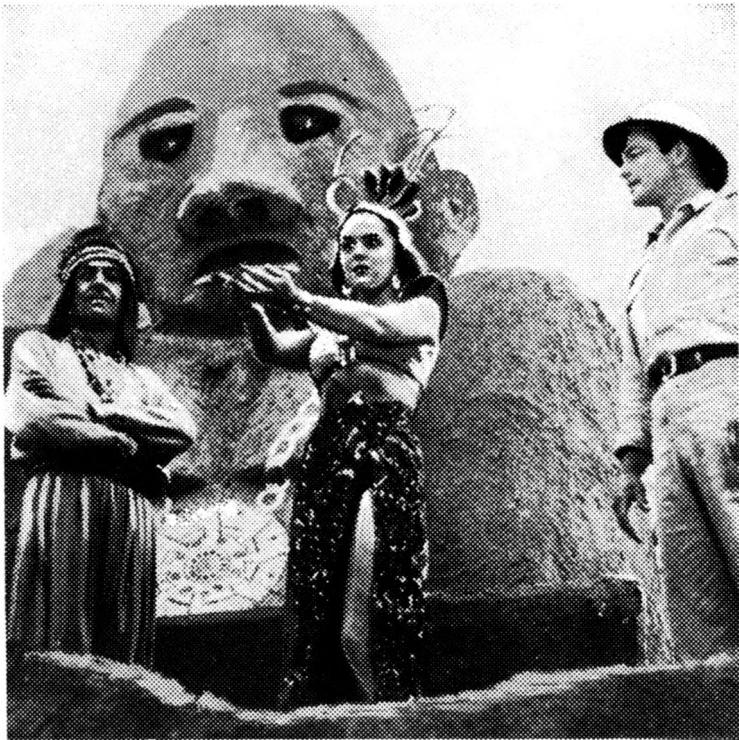

9. Jungle Jeopardy

With a supreme effort, Bob breaks his bonds and drags his father away from the pit. Cora changes her allegiance and helps Dr. Moore get free. Meanwhile, Rayne with the aid of a nearby pygmy tribe, hostile to the Arzees, retakes the Trading Post. Joe, Tom and Ann are made prisoners of the tribe. Dr. Moore, Bob and Cora reach the Post exhausted, to find it once more under Rayne's control. Bob and the doctor get away and meet Charley in the jungle. He agrees to take them to the pygmy village to free Joe, Tom and Ann. But he leads them into a swamp infested with crocodiles.

THE DANGEROUS PIT OF THE DAGGERS is explored by Veda Ann Borg and her villainous henchmen in Columbia Pictures' "Jungle Raiders."

PRAYERS TO THE ARZEC GOD are offered by Carol Hughes as Kane Richmond, right, looks on

10. Prisoners of Peril

Bob rescues his father from the crocodiles and continues to the pygmy village. There the chief tortures Rayne, Tom and Joe to learn the way to the Hidden Village so that his tribe can recover the treasure which was stolen from them. Bob approaches the pygmy camp, tells the chief that his father is nearby and will lead them there if the prisoners are released. Meanwhile, Matu convinces his father that Zara should be banished. A native trailing her learns that the pygmies are marching on the Arzecs. Elsewhere, Cora and some of Rayne's men, having left the Post, spot Dr. Moore and the pygmy party. They open fire. Bob, Joe and Tom drop to the ground, apparently wounded.

11. Vengeance of Zara

Pushing Ann out of the bullets' range, Bob, Joe and Tom pretend to be shot. Cora and her men disappear into the jungle. Cora then contacts Zara, promising to help her regain her rule of the Arzecs if the latter aids her in getting the hidden treasure. Zara goes to the pygmy village to incite the little men who have taken Dr. Moore prisoner. Bob and Joe head for the Post, load the jeep with gunpowder and set out to rescue the doctor who is to be executed. Frantically, Bob and Joe prepare a crude bomb. Powder is spilled, and there is a terrific explosion.

12. The Key to Arzec

Dr. Moore rolls clear of the falling debris. The pygmies and Zara flee in panic. Bob, Joe, Tom, Ann and the doctor return to the Post. Wondering how Rayne and his men always have food and ammunition, Bob's party search the Post. While Bob is scouring the inside, Rayne enters, slugs Bob and shuts him in the secret cellar where when he awakens finds Dr. Reed. Rayne then battles it out with Joe and Tom outside the Post. Suddenly, there is a deafening explosion where Bob and Dr. Reed are held.

13. Witch Doctor's Treachery

The explosion loosens the trapdoor and Bob gets out. Bob's sudden appearance turns the tide in the battle outside the Post. Rayne and his men retreat to the jungle. Dr. Reed agrees to lead Bob's party to the Hidden Village. There, by treachery and stealth, the witch doctor has made prisoners of Cora, Zara, Rayne and his henchmen, along with the Chief and Matu. The witch doctor by a crafty trick captures Dr. Reed, Dr. Moore, Ann, Tom and Bob, as they enter singly through a secret entrance. Joe is the only one outside the Hidden Village.

14. The Judgment of Rana

Joe tackles the native guards. In the ensuing fight, Bob and Joe free Drs. Reed and Moore as well as Tom and Ann. Infuriated by the rescue, the witch doctor singles out Cora, Brent and Cragg as his first victims. Meanwhile, Dr. Reed leads Bob to the scene of execution and momentarily stops it by pitting Bob against the witch doctor in the Fire Test. They are both to descend into a volcanic pit to recover the bracelet of Rana which Zara throws down there. Craftily, the witch doctor arranges with Rayne to shoot Bob as he emerges from the pit. This is done.

15. The Jewels of Arzec

Rayne's shot misses Bob. Matu orders Rayne killed. The witch doctor, accompanied by Cora, Brent and Cragg who still hope to get the treasure and the valuable cure-all medicine, goes to the Dagger Pit. There he kills Brent and Cragg. Zara, now on Bob's side, appears on the scene and grapples with Cora. After a short struggle, both girls topple to their doom on the daggers at the pit bottom. Bob reaches the Dagger Pit, chases the witch doctor to the edge of a crater. As the witch doctor loses his balance and falls to his death, Bob catches the box of magic healing powder. Bob, Joe and Dr. Reed turn the powder over to Dr. Moore who is waiting with Ann.

A Republic 12-Episode Serial

To a remote section of Siam, zealously guarded by unconquered native tribes, comes the unwelcome Malcolm Scientific Expedition seeking knowledge of the ancient Scorpion Dynasty. Billy Batson, assistant to the radio expert, is the only one of the party who does not enter a forbidden chamber; as a result he is awarded the power to transform himself into a superman, "Captain Marvel," upon uttering the word "Shazam." Meanwhile, the scientists who have entered the sacred tomb have discovered "The Scorpion," a powerful gold weapon the potency of which is brought about by focussing five peculiar lenses. The scientists divide the lenses among themselves so that no one of them will have supernatural power.

A sinister gang, headed by a mysterious individual who calls himself "The Scorpion," embarks upon a campaign to steal the five lenses from the scientists so that their combined power will be sufficient to conquer the universe. They inflict various tribulations on the party, from which the members are inevitably rescued by Billy, in the guise of "Captain Marvel." As Marvel, he is invincible and able to overcome any danger. When the Scorpion's men attempt to kill him by means of a fiendishly contrived guillotine, the falling blade smashes to bits as it contacts his superhuman body. When a time bomb is placed in his plane, he becomes "Marvel" and glides safely through the air to the ground.

The expedition returns to America, but it is pursued by the sinister "Scorpion," who is obviously determined to leave no stone unturned in his ambition to attain world dominance. His malevolent influence is directed toward Betty, secretary of the expedition, when he learns that she is intrusted with many of the secrets of the party and undertakes various dangerous missions for them.

The Scorpion acquires all of the lenses but one, without which he is unable to focus the secret weapon. Naturally, he becomes more determined to acquire it, and will stop at nothing.

Billy has reason to believe that the Scorpion is in reality one of the scientists taking part in the Malcolm expedition. The Scorpion decides that it is very necessary to bring about his sudden death — a death so sudden that he will not have time to utter the magic word "Shazam" before it overtakes him. This is attempted; Billy is bound and gagged so that he cannot utter the word. He tricks the Scorpion into releasing the gag in order, as he pretends, to explain to him the secret of his invulnerability. Once released, he cries "Shazam" and becomes Captain Marvel. He is able to free himself and his friends and expose the Scorpion, once and for all, as Bentley himself, leader of the expedition.
